Case Notes: Has successfully attended his day 1 induction presentation via the induction classroom located on FNC. This presentation included the Notts TV 2023 and key information. He has been advised of all avenues of support available to him to assist him with adapting to life at HMP Nottingham. Other topics discussed were canteen, visits and other wings and their function and facilities they have to offer. OMU, education, and access to purposeful activity. Emergency procedures and the use of emergency cell bell systems. It was explained to him that after successfully completing the induction process he will be required to relocate to another wing which he understood and accepted. He has been issued with an induction information booklet and re-assured that should he have any further concerns to speak to a staff member on F-Wing.

Case Notes: First Night Interview Prior to the Interview, I accessed relevant information which includes \2013 Digital PER, EDiC Booklet, and C-Nomis (Including Active Alerts). I explained to Mr Connor Jackson that this was a First Night Safety Interview, which would allow us to assess what support he needs and begin his custodial stay appropriately. I explained that I would be asking some relatively personal questions, but it was important that he provided as honest answers as possible, to ensure I could signpost him to the correct avenues of support. I explained my role as a Safety Officer interviewing him, and that he would likely see me around the establishment and encouraged him to come and speak to me or others if he wanted to. I briefly explained the Key Worker Scheme and advised that he will be allocated a member of staff who will support him throughout his custodial stay, alongside other agencies such as substance misuse, mental health, physical health, and OMU as well as other operational staff. Mr Connor Jackson has arrived at HMP Nottingham as a recalled prisoner from Nottingham Custody Suite. His index offence is possession of drugs with intent to supply. He has been recalled for poor behaviour and further offences. He has advised me today that he does not have current thoughts of self-harm and/or suicide and does not have a history \2013 his NOMIS shows x0 previous SH. His PER does show this. When asked about his mental and physical health, he stated that he has a weakened immune system from his Splenectomy. His PER does show this. Regarding drug and alcohol issues he told me he has no current issues. I encouraged him to speak to the nurse during his H/C Screen and use the kiosk for any healthcare issues which may arise. He has stated that he has good support from friends or family in the community and will be contacting his partner and siblings whilst in custody. He stated he does not have gang affiliations and/or issues here at HMP Nottingham that he wants to disclose. Does his paperwork and PER show risks to others and self: DV perpetrator He has advised me he is not a veteran. I asked him if he has any trigger dates and he stated that he does not. I explained how we would help support him during this time and I advised him that if any more do come up, then he can let staff know and we will add them to the trigger database, which means he will get additional support around this date for these also. I explained the process of locating to the FNC Unit, and that he would be introduced to the EDSW\2019s who work on there, and that he would begin his induction programme tomorrow. I also advised him of the Listeners Scheme and Samaritans, explaining that the PIN for Samaritans is 34153659, and the number is 08454507797. He has advised me he has no debts in the community and none in custody. He engaged well in the First Night Interview, I have informed him of the support networks available in custody, such as the listeners and Samaritans. I also explained the process of applying to Safer Custody, or how he can approach staff to ask us to be contacted. I also explained that shortly he will be located to the FNC Unit, where he will have his induction. Due to the information provided and his presentation throughout, I do not believe an ACCT document is necessary at this time.

Case Notes: Keyworker session: For our session today I spoke to Connor in Res 5 office before he went off to the gym course. From checking his case notes prior to the session I could see that there has been an update with Connor\2019s parole and his release date.Connor is thrilled that his parole has been accepted and is due for release tomorrow which he is really looking forward to. He is concerned about his canteen tomorrow as he would like to take it home with him, I assured him if he had not been taken to reception before we did canteen he would get it and be able to take it home, and if he had he would be issued a full refund which he was okay with. He stated that the sweets he had ordered could not be brought outside so he wanted them which we laughed about as he can go home and buy all the sweets he wants.He is still keeping in contact with his family and friends on the outside and told me that they are so excited for him to go home and he can\2019t wait to see them. I asked if he knew what he was doing for work when he is released and he stated that he had it all sorted and would be painting and decorating.He assured me that there was nothing else he wanted to discuss or needed and he was just ready to get home and was excited. I wished him luck for the future and he thanked me for everything.

Case Note Sub Type: Key Worker Session

Case Notes: Keyworker session: For our session today I spoke to Connor in Res 5 office as he was not required for the gym course this morning. From checking his case notes prior to the session I could see that there has been an update with his parole since our last session and had been keeping tabs on this over the last week. Connor is thrilled that his parole has been accepted, he is a bit disappointed that he has not yet been provided with a date of his release but is happy that the process is moving along. After receiving his paperwork about his parole he gave me a secondary address to pass along to his OMU worker which I have done. She requires a phone number for everyone living at the address, he explained that the family friend living at the address is currently living in Thailand but is still paying rent so the house is currently empty, but he has provided a phone number for the landlord which I have passed along. He is still keeping in contact with his family and friends on the outside and is keeping them updated on what is going on with his parole. He has a visit booked for the 22nd with his girlfriend but he is hoping that he will be released by then and can see her properly. He is a bit worried about moving off of Res 5 due to the recent decant however due to his parole coming up he should be gone before the decant which he is happy with. He assured me that there was nothing else he wanted to discuss or needed and he was just ready to get home and wanted everything to be sorted now. I assured him I would keep him updated with his OMU workers response and he thanked me for this.

Case Notes: Keyworker session: For our session today I spoke to Connor in Res 5 Office. From checking his case notes prior to the session I could see that there has been a few updates with Connor since his move to res 5. Connor has settled onto the wing well and gets on well with both his peers and the staff on the unit. He has been allocated to the gym course which Connor said is positive for him as he was a drug user on the outside before he came to prison it helps to keep him off drugs and keep his mental health on check. I advised that he moved up stairs onto the ISFL for regular drug testing which he has been asked to do for his parole hearing, he is happy to be tested and would like to start as soon as possible so I will speak to the CM about this. We discussed his upcoming parole board hearing on the 25th, he has been sent a copy of the latest report and asked me to go through them with him as there was some things he was confused about. He is firstly confused at what a probation reset is, from reading the forms I explained that it was regarding working with probation upon his release which he started to understand more. He was confused about why in the paperwork they discussed whether his recall was appropriate and if it is in question why he could not be released back to his Dad's address where he was allowed to stay before. I read the paperwork and told him the reasoning for rejecting the address and he understood but was frustrated as he had been allowed to reside there previously. I will email his OMU worker to see if an approved premises is being looked at for his release and the time scale of this to ease his mind a bit. He told me that he was only recalled for missing a probation appointment that he didn't know about because he licence conditions were not given to him upon his release from HMP Nottingham they were given to him at his first probation appointment that he went to. He feels that this is unfair as he was told his licence conditions were rushed as they were unaware of his release, and he feels that as he did not know about the appointment he missed it should be taken into consideration. Connor is also confused about why he has been put down as high risk when it says his risk of reoffending is medium. I have emailed his OMU worker about this also. He is frustrated that he has been put down as a risk to his children when he has regular visits with them, he had a family visit on the 1st of July which he said was really nice but now he is a risk to them. He was very frustrated about the whole situation and feels that nothing has been explained to him properly by probation and this is setting him up to fail. He is keeping in regular contact with his friends and family on the outside mainly via phone calls, letters and visits. He has a visit booked for the 8/8 with his girlfriend which he is looking forward to but told me that this also makes no sense. He has no restrictions in the prison in regards to visiting and speaking to his partner and children but is considered a risk to them when they are happy to speak to him, visit him and his girlfriend is happy to have him back living with her. Connor told me that he is now fully ready to be released and feels that he should not be here at all. He has a job offer waiting for him upon his release with his friend who owns a painting company and decorating company and is ready to get out and get his life back on track. He feels that he has done all he can do and has been asking to do more. He asked to be assessed for the TSP course here in Brinsford but was rejected as he was not considered high risk, but his probation has requested he do it so he feels that he is stuck. I will again email his OMU worker regarding the TSP course and what else he can do whilst he is here waiting for a decision.

Case Notes: "Prior to the Session, I accessed relevant information which includes \2013 Digital PER, EDiC Booklet, and C-Nomis (Including Active Alerts). I explained to Mr Connor Jackson that this was a First Night Keyworker Session, which would allow us to assess what support he needs and begin his custodial stay appropriately. I explained that I would be asking some relatively personal questions, but it was important that he provided as honest answers as possible, to ensure I could signpost him to the correct avenues of support. I explained my role as a Safety Officer interviewing him, and that he would likely see me around the establishment and encouraged him to come and speak to me or others if he wanted to. I also explained that once he is located to a \201Cnormal\201D residential unit, he will be allocated a permanent Keyworker, who will be able to offer longer-term support, advice, and guidance during their time here at Nottingham. Connor Jackson has arrived at HMP Nottingham from Nottingham Custody Suite On licence recall for missing an appointment. His index offence is PWITS. When asked about any current thoughts of self-harm and/or suicide, he stated he has no current thoughts, nor any history. In regards to any mental health concerns, he informed me he has none. In regards to drug and alcohol issues, he advised me he that he has none. I encouraged him to speak to the nurse during his H/C Screen, and use the kiosk for any healthcare issues which may arise. Mr Ridding has support from family and friends in the community and stated he has no gang affiliations or gang related concerns here at HMP Nottingham. He explained to me that he has no trigger dates, however I advised him that if any do come up, then he can let staff know and we will add them to the trigger database, which means he will get additional support around this date. He stated that he is not a veteran. DPER and NOMIS alerts checked - No concerns of note. I have informed him of the support networks available in custody, such as the listeners and Samaritans. I also explained the process of applying to Safer Custody, or how he can approach staff to ask us to be contacted. I have explained that shortly he will be located to the FNC Unit, where he will meet the EDSW's. Due to his presentation and the information provided, I do not believe an ACCT is required at this time."
